Project Name: For Morgan
Size of Project: 52" X 60"
Story about this quilt: My daughter, Morgan, loves quilts and using color but does not have the time to sew. She and I designed this quilt using Kaffe fabrics from the auction. This is bigger than I like to work on using my domestic machine for quilting but when my daughter asked, I said yes.

Story about this quilt: This is a pattern from Quiltfolk. It was my first time using a pdf pattern for a garment, which meant lots of taping paper together. I made 5 of these aprons, 4 for Christmas gifts for others and one for myself. They went together beautifully, with all raw edges contained in either French seams or careful design. I am well pleased with the results.

Story about this quilt: I have never made a holiday quilt and really liked this pattern when I saw it on Krista Moser's blog. I participated in the 5-week quilt along and had lots of fun doing so. Each week for 5 weeks she shared a part of putting this quilt together and her videos were filled with great tips and encouragement for success. I finished it by Christmas and used it as some of my holiday decorations.

Story about this quilt:	I saw this Moda fabric at Ace Sew & Vac and immediately thought of Krista Moser's diamond tool. Purchased the fabric—later purchased more when it went to the sale rack. The first quilt had two Y seams (Y-Seam form a Y-shape when three pieces of fabric are sewn together at a single point.). The second has no Y seams—my personal challenge.

Project Name:	Little block Christmas tree
Size of Project:	51" X 63"
Story about this quilt:	I finally got my "Little Block Christmas Tree" completed. I put a lot of my leftover scraps on the back. And the red and white striped binding really finished it off. I put crystals on all the green parts of the tree and on all the red paper pieced blocks.

Project Name:	Donation quilts for Providence Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

Size of Project: 42" X 42"
 Story about this quilt: (I submitted 3 pictures of different quilts; same but a little different)

My friend's mom has been making embroidered squares. We decided to incorporate some of them into quilts for the neonatal unit at Providence Hospital. I made 4 quilts using some of the squares. I also made 2 without the embroidered squares.

 Size of Project: 50" X 50"
 Story about this quilt: Sara H shared this disappearing 9-patch with me. I used 9-inch pieces for the 9-patch block before cutting it. In laying out the quilt, I wanted to give the illustration of a radiating diamond. My husband could not see the diamonds on the design wall. So quilted individual quilting patterns into each diamond—still a little hard to see the diamonds. Fun experiment! Linda has a PDF document that she is willing to share if you want to try this technique.

The 5" wide strips and clean lines of the design provided a great foil for my Gingham Foundry fabrics which include a text print with the lyrics to the song "What a Wonderful World."
